

I Need a Parent, Not a Friend

R. Patrice Dunn M.Ed., LPC

We all entered the world of parenting loaded with bottles, baby powder, blankets and binkies. With confidence and commitment we embarked on the journey of child rearing. Some parents wake up one day and wondered what happened, they now have a child that talks back, has an attitude, break rules, and refuses to respect authority. Some parents are eager to learn skills so they don't end up in that situation. This presentation is for all parents regardless of where they are in the journey. In this presentation four parenting styles will be discussed and parents will determine which style fits and how that is effecting life at home. There will be laughter during the giggle breaks, smiling during the costume changes, and learning how to parent creatively to help get through the rough spots. It is never too late to right the ship and rescue your children with the lifesaver called, effective parenting.
